

NOTED LEAGUE SECRETARY ACCEPTS HOWLAND MEDAL

Sir Arthur Salter, K. C. B.
Receives Prize From J. R.
Angell Last Evening.

SPEAKS ON ECONOMIC FUTURE

Famed Financial Reconstructionist Says That It Remains for Educational Institutions Like Yale to Teach Economic Influences on Peace.

"Over the heads of Europe, the Sword of Damocles is oscillating between pigs and pig-iron!" declared Sir Arthur Salter, K. C. B., who was awarded the Howland Memorial Prize by President James Rowland Angell in William L. Harkness Hall last night in recognition of his distinguished work in connection with the financial reconstruction of Austria, Greece, and Hungary after the World War. This prize is conferred "in recognition of some achievement of marked distinction in the field of literature or fine arts or in the science of government." Following the presentation of the medal that accompanies the award, Sir Arthur spoke on the economic forces that will make the next ten years in world history vital to permanent international peace.

In summing up what he believes the solution of one of the greatest problems that have ever menaced the nations of the world, he said that, "it rests with great educational institutions such as this and other universities, with all teachers and others who influence public opinion, and with the forces of public instruction, to devote discussion, research, and consideration to the subject of economic influences on world peace."

Sir Arthur maintained that, "the ensuing ten years will witness the development of gigantic international rivalries. They will be centered about a subject entirely new to the history of mankind. The world has previously seen tremendous military rivalries where the cause of contention is the desire for colonies, for fame, or for the subjugation of other nations with the resulting benefits of trade, of power, and of financial profits.

"But I believe that this next period of years, now that Europe is beginning to be settled following the World War, will bring a great competition and intense nationalistic rivalries for foreign markets," he said. "This does not mean, however, that economic competition is not as a whole beneficial for the world."

"While a few individuals, and in some exceptional cases, an entire nation may be hurt by this condition, this competition acts as a stimulant. It might be compared with the tension that holds a great stone arch together. Each stone supports another, and the whole is kept intact as a durable and marmorous entity."

"We can best understand what this competition means by the following example: Suppose six people were living alone on a desert island. They would soon divide up the work so that each man would do one particular kind. Someone would make the shoes; another might do the cooking. You see, they would know that the general welfare could best be promoted by specialization. Nations are like that. Each has its job."

"Now then, imagine that a seventh individual should suddenly appear in this com-

FLYING COURSE IS OFFERED FREE TO COLLEGE STUDENTS

Award to Be Made by Mass. Airways to Student Making Best Showing in Aeronautical Contest.

An opportunity to win a free flying course is offered Yale University students by Massachusetts Airways, operator of a large air school and flying service at Springfield, Massachusetts.

The Massachusetts Airways, a distributor of Eaglerock airplanes in the New England states and the province of Quebec, has announced it would award a 10-hour flying course, worth approximately $300, to the college student in its territory who makes the best showing in the aeronautical scholarship contest which the Alexander Aircraft Company of Colorado Springs is conducting this spring to arouse more collegiate interest in aviation.

An Eaglerock, completely equipped with motor and propeller, or a four-year university scholarship in Aeronautics will be awarded June 1 to the undergraduate who submits the best four short articles on aviation before May 1. The contest is open until that date. Both men and women are eligible.

FREEBOOTERS CLASH WITH FAST TROOP C POLO TRIO

Only Athletic Event of Day Will Mark Attempted Come-Back by Eli Pony Riders Revenging for Defeat.

Those who love a thrilling game of pony polo will be afforded a treat when a team, composed of officers of the Yale R. O. T. C. staff, who call themselves the "Freebooters," clashes with a crack Troop C team of Hartford in the Yale Armory today at 4. This is a return match and follows last week's struggle between the two aggregations when Yale was defeated by a 1-2 point margin. This will be the only athletic event at Yale today.

The National Guard troop of the Capital City will ship its crack ponies to New Haven this morning, and in opposition the Freebooters will ride the finest mounts of the Yale stables in an attempt to even up the series by defeating the visitors. Such a victory would retaliate for the fast and closely fought game in the Hartford Armory last Saturday when the Troop C players emerged with a 12 1-2 to 11 win. This contest was reported to be one of the most exciting and brilliant played in that city within recent years.

Major O. I. Gates, coach of the highly successful University Polo Team, is captain of the Eli representatives. As additional supports he has Lieutenant Burnes and Captain Beuchler, both of them experienced players. At the opposite end of the Armory, starting for the visitors, will be Patterson at No. 1, Hutzfeld at No. 2, and Steiger at back.

All of the Hartford trio are veteran polo players, having ridden with the troop for

YALE WILL BUY BUILDING FROM HISTORICAL SOCIETY

University to Gain Possession Of Block Bounded by Grove, Wall, Temple, and College.

HALF MILLION PRICE RUMORED

Erection of Vanderbilt Quadrangle, One Of the Largest of the Proposed College Building Projects, to Be Made Possible By Acquisition.

According to an announcement issued yesterday by the officers and directors of the New Haven Colony Historical Society, the society's building on Grove street is to be purchased by Yale University for an estimated price of a half million dollars. The sale will close negotiations between the University and the New Haven Colony Society, which have been pending for many months, and will give Yale the possession of land adjacent to the present buildings of the Sheffield Scientific School.

By acquiring the ground the University will come to own the entire block bounded by Grove, College, Temple, and Wall streets. This is expected to make possible the erection of Vanderbilt Quadrangle, which has long been under consideration by the college authorities. Its construction is one of the largest of the many proposed Yale building projects and the expenses are expected to amount to millions of dollars.

The money received by the society will be directed toward a new historical building to be erected on property adjoining the residence of Professor William Lyon Phelps, '87, on Temple Street. The present historical society building was erected some thirty years ago as a memorial to the late James English, who was a former governor of Connecticut and a United States Senator. The motion to turn the property over to the University was made by Henry F. English, who was one of the donors of the building. The new building will be of Georgian architecture, the plans having been executed by J. Frederick Kelley and passed upon by the historical society directors and the Yale architectural committee, of which James Gamble Rogers, '89, is a member.

Judge John L. Gilson, '99, is president of the society, and the other officers and directors include the following alumni: Doctor Herbert Thoms, 1019, second vice president; Thomas M. Prentice, 1921S, secretary; Judge A. McC. Mathewson, '84, assistant secretary, and Doctor Henry F. English, '74, Doctor William A. Beardsley, 1911, Burton Mansfield, '75S, Henry L. Hotchkiss, '73, George D. Watrous, '79, Osborne A. Day, '99S, Professor Charles Seymour, 1908, James E. Wheeler, '92, Professor Theodore S. Woolsey, '72, Professor Andrew Keogh, 1904, and Leonard M. Daggett, '84.

ALLIANCE FRANCAISE GROUP TO HEAR NOTED LECTURER

M. Funck-Bretano, Noted French Historian And Speaker, Invited to Address Local Branch Organization.

Under the auspices of the Alliance Francaise Groupe de New Haven M. Frantz Funck-Bretano, official lecturer of the national organization, will address the society in Room 201, William L. Harkness Hall, next Tuesday night at 8:15. His subject will be, "Ce qu'etaient les 'lettres de cachet'." As a historian of international note and a regular lecturer at the Louvre, he has gained wide popularity in Europe.

M. Funck-Bretano, who arrived from France early this month to spend the winter lecturing in the United States and Canada, will be making his second tour through America, having come here twenty-five years ago at the invitation of the Alliance's founder, Mr. J. H. Hyde. The creation of an Alliance group in Washington came as a direct result of his visit to that city where he was given a cordial reception at the White House.

Always a student of history, and long the curator of the Department of Manuscripts and Engravings at the Arsenal Library in Paris, M. Funck-Bretano has gained fame as the author of historical novels of a high order. His thesis-subject, when he obtained the degree of Docteur es lettres at the University of Paris in 1896, was, "The Origins of the Hundred Years' War."

His sound erudition has been displayed by his ability to reconstruct important periods of French history; equally vivid are considered his pictures of those times, whether dealing with Marie Antoinette, with

COMMITTEE WILL RAISE PRICE OF PROM. TICKETS

Couple and Chaperon Prices Will Be Increased to $15 And $18 Tuesday.

STAG TICKETS REMAIN AT $8

Early Applications Urgently Requested to Assure Economical Purchases and Facilitate the Completion of Box Plan And Prom. Directory.

On Tuesday, January 29, the Junior Promenade Committee will raise the price of tickets for couples and for couples and chaperon from $13 and $15 to $15 and $18 respectively. The last opportunity to purchase tickets at the reduced rates which have been prevailing during the early ticket sale will be offered today and Monday. All applicants are urgently requested to make their reservations at the Promenade Committee's headquarters in the A. A. Office at once, in order to facilitate the completion of the box plan and Prom. directory. Inasmuch as the directory to be used in the Prom. program will be sent to the printer tomorrow noon, the Committee urges everyone to make applications today.

Although in past years the rise in ticket prices has included all departments, this year the committee has voted to restrict the increase only to tickets for couples and couples and chaperon. Stag prices will remain at $8 apiece, the same price for which they have been selling, and rooms in Vanderbilt Hall are still to be obtained for $3 for one night and $6 for the two. All box reservations will continue to sell for $5 a couple. In view of the low cost for stags, the Committee is expecting a large number of undergraduates to make their reservations during the coming week. It is being further stressed that the traditional idea that the Promenade is no place for stags is entirely false. This year there will be sixteen dances on the program with two encores to each dance, during which cutting-in will be allowed. After 2:30 the dance will continue with cutting-in and last till 5, and a stag line will be needed to assure the success of the affair.

The sale of tickets at reduced prices has met with a much greater response from the student body than ever before. When the office closed last evening there were a total of 94 more sales on record than at the same time last year, and over 300 tickets had been sold altogether. An equally successful record is expected today, when a last opportunity will be given applicants to have their names printed in the Promenade directory which is to appear in the News and the Prom. program. Final revision will be made by the committee over the week-end and this is absolutely the last chance which will

YALE SWIMMERS DEFEAT VISITING WESLEYAN TEAM

Coach Bob Kiphuth's Mermer Establish Early Supremacy Over Rivals—Score 51-20.

RELAY RECORD IS SMASHED

E. G. Cahill, 1931S, J. Howland, Jr., 1930, And N. W. Millard, 1931S, Trim 4 1-5 Seconds Off Medley Relay Race Creating New Intercollegiate Time.

One intercollegiate record was smashed in the Carnegie Pool last night when the Yale mermen continued their undefeated season by trimming the Wesleyan team by the one-sided score of 51-20. Starting off with a bang to win the 300-yard medley relay in the record time of 3 minutes and 14 seconds, Coach Kiphuth's men were never threatened. The swimmers from Wesleyan snatched only two first places, one second, and four thirds.

The record-breaking medley team was composed of E. G. Cahill, 1930S, N. W. Millard, 1930S, and J. Howland, Jr., 1930. The previous record of 3 minutes 18 1-5 seconds was established by the University of Michigan team (Thompson, Hubbel, Walker) in the University of Pennsylvania Pool on March 31, 1928. Cahill, who started off the race with the back stroke, completed his laps in 1 minute 8 3-5 seconds, while Millard followed him up by negotiating his 100 yards of breast stroke in 1 minute 11 3-5 seconds. Howland, rounding out the race with four laps of free style, managed to make the excellent time of 53 4-5 seconds, just two fifths of a second more than the present intercollegiate record for the 100-yard free style held by J. D. Bronson, 1926.

Forging into an early lead by winning the opening event, the Blue tankmen lost first place in the 50-yard dash to Peck of Wesleyan, who completed that distance in 26 seconds flat. R. M. Owen, 1931S, then retaliated by taking the 440 in 5 minutes 37 2-5 seconds, with Parr of Wesleyan second and H. P. J. Duberg, 1930, of Yale third. Bodel of Wesleyan then captured the dive, with his teammate Peck taking third, while W. Manuel, 1930, of the Eli team took second. From then on the visitors failed to come closer than thirds, with C. D. Mercer, 1930, winning the 200-yard breast stroke in 2 minutes 49 1-5 seconds, and L. Levine, 1930, coming in first in the 100-yard free style. The time of this event was 58 3-5 seconds. The 150-yard back stroke went to R. D. Howse, 1930, with a time of 1 minute 56 2-5 seconds, while the Blue relay team, composed of Captain J. A. Pope, 1929, J. C. Kline, 1929, L. P. Scott, 1931, and R. G. Olmstead, 1931, took a very close race with a time of 1 minute 45 2-5 seconds.

The summary follows:

50-yard dash—Won by Peck, Wesleyan; Zug, 1931, second; Thrall, 1930, third. Time 26 seconds.

100-yard swim—Won by Levine, 1931; H

THE RESIDENTIAL SYSTEM

The disappointment felt throughout a part of the University that Yale has not yet approved any of the proposals for the adoption of a system of residential quadrangles must be mitigated somewhat by a consideration of a few of the practical obstacles to such a step. Granting that the establishment of such a dormitory system would generally be considered desirable and that its successful functioning could be reasonably foreseen, the existing architectural plan of the University presents a decidedly difficult problem. The present dormitory units on the old Campus and in Harkness could not be adapted to the small quadrangle plan without a wide rearrangement of existing buildings involving such extensive demolition and construction that the possibility seems too remote for consideration in the near future. In fact, the present residential plan in the College could scarcely be less suitable to such an undertaking.

The construction of greatly-needed additional dormitories for the Freshman Year and Sheff., however, would make it possible to experiment with, and perhaps, ultimately establish a group of small residential quadrangles for a part of the University. Except for the land now available in Sheff., no other single site is of sufficient area to make possible the construction of a very large residential building. Most of the future dormitories, therefore, must necessarily be in the form of separate units accommodating groups of rather limited size. If several were constructed as complete residential quadrangles with their own dining halls, a test of the "house" plan could be made without an elaborate reorganization of existing units, and if its success were demonstrated, any dormitories that might be required in the future could be added in this form. The adoption of the small quadrangle design for future dormitories, without a rearrangement of the existing residential system, seems the most practical solution of the housing problem whether the "house" plan ultimately is considered desirable or not.

ORGAN RECITAL IN CHAPEL

A departure from the usual chapel program which should meet with the approval and interest of the undergraduate body is the introduction of services during examination week consisting only of organ music. The innovation has been suggested by a similar service held at Harvard during the period of mid-year examinations.

The opportunity so offered to the busy student to insert a leisurely period of quiet and relaxation into a strenuous day should be particularly welcomed at this time. The music is played by Professor H. Frank Bozian, a skilled organist, who has chosen his programs to contain selections which may offer a real appeal to his listeners. The unusual program arranged by the University Pastor is decidedly deserving of attention and appreciation.

munity. At first he would be treated with suspicion and high disfavor by the others. But gradually he would be accepted and find some branch of endeavor that he was best fitted to carry out. Not only would he be benefitted, but the original six would reap the results of his assistance. Nations are in many ways exactly like that. What we have to fear is that period of suspicion and enmity before complete co-operation is secured."

Wesleyan Gets the Royal Bird

Professor E. W. Kemmerer of the class of 1899, at Wesleyan, and now of the economics department at Princeton, has presented his Alma Mater with a stuffed quetzal, national bird of Guatemala, and increasingly rare. It is to be noted that this odd and elusive inhabitant of the air is no relation to the celebrated "Wah Hoo" bird so well known but so seldom seen in the United States. It is nevertheless a treasure, and adds much to the already formidable collection of bird lore, at Wesleyan, even if it has been stuffed with cotton for almost a decade.

Choate News Wins Harvard Award

For the third successive time the Choate News, published by the Choate School of Wallingford, Connecticut, is winner of the annual school newspaper contest conducted by the Harvard Crimson. The Choate weekly was awarded the prize on account of its general excellency in the appearance of its makeup, variety of news stories, and quality of editorials. The Choate News has always been one of the leaders in preparatory school journalism.

Collegiate Restaurant Stirs Chicago

Waitresses with degrees, dietitians who prepare menus scientifically, cooks and coffee girls just out of college make up the staff of a new "collegiate" restaurant opening in Chicago. A patron is greeted with the name of the waitress serving him and her respective alma mater, and upon inquiring he can find that his bread was baked by a coed from Iowa State and that his coffee was drawn by the most popular girl at the University of Minnesota. A long waiting list of girls who are eager to take up the work attests the popularity of the new movement, and colleges throughout the United States are cooperating with the owners in sending the right types of girls.

134 West Pointers Assigned to Infantry

Of the estimated total of 300 in the senior class at West Point, 134, or 44 2-3 per cent will go to the infantry according to the allotments made by the War Department yesterday. The cavalry will receive 29 men, the field artillery 53, the coast artillery 38, the engineers 26, signal corps 10, and quartermaster corps 10. None of the graduates will be assigned to the Army Air Corps directly, because of the limitation by law on non-fliers, but details for flying training with a view to eventual transfer will be unlimited.

Model G

Natural Sunlight Healing and Invigorating Strength, Vigor, and Health are the natural results of regular sun baths.

The rays of the carbon arc contain all of the visible and invisible rays of natural sunlight in concentrated form. The Model G burns the same carbons and uses the same electric current as the most expensive lamps, consequently the rays of the model G are just as effective as the higher priced models.

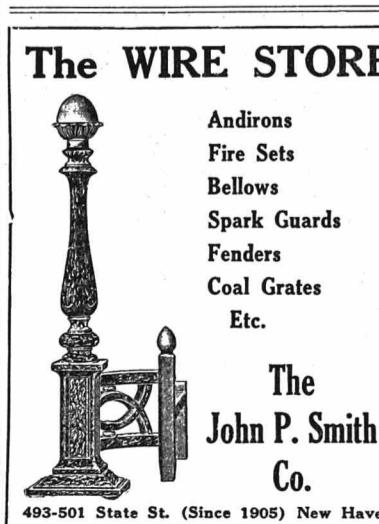

Sun baths taken at regular intervals will build up a resistance that is not effected by temperature changes or periodical infections such as colds, grippe, influenza, etc.

"If you were a freshman again with your college career before you, would you get a Remington Portable?..." Be guided by his answer. For you will discover what he already has had the opportunity to observe—that notes transcribed on the typewriter are easier to review—that typed essays are easier to write (and read)—and that the fellows at Yale who own Remington Portables seem to have the edge on be given late comers to have their names appear on the official list of guests. Another advantage in obtaining tickets now is that only in this way may the favors be obtained. The supply which recently arrived is fast disappearing and it is essential that those desiring copies reserve theirs at once. In order to complete the initial plan of the arrangement of the boxes, all applications must be in by tonight.
