

ROWELL CRITICIZES LAST NUMBER OF YALE RECORD

March Issue Is Characterized by Former 1926 Managing Editor as Excellent.

HUMOR IS RATHER MALICIOUS

Critic Takes Up Bludgeons With Author of Tirade Against Yale Professor, 1928 Model; Says Drool Is Fair, But Verse Is Mediocre.

(H. T. Rowell, 1926, Instructor in the University Latin Department, reviews in the following criticism the Travel Number of the Yale Record, of which he was formerly Managing Editor.)

Clinging to the last and excellent issue of The Yale Record, there is none too faint odor of acid and brimstone; the laughter is high and malicious; the bladder spiked. Perhaps it is the first sign of Spring, now lost within the snowdrifts of the town; perhaps Mr. MacDonald ate something that did not sit so well, perhaps the boys decided to be mean for the dry tingling delight of meanness, I do not know; suffice it, however, that true to the month of March, the issue comes like an angry lion and goes out with a two-line joke of a lamb. But to be specific!

The editorial page contains two articles entitled: 1. Yale Professor, 1928 Model. 2. Teaching as a Career. In the first the complaint is this: That the modern professor indulges in occasional ice cream suits and has a flare for the histrionic. Moreover, he can make his disciples laugh and cry but cannot tell the truth. The ideal, the golden mean, it further appears, would be one with the wit of Wilde and the wisdom of Socrates and the learning of Spengler. Needless to say, such an immortal would not wear an ice cream suit; in fact, he could not probably afford one. As for the truth, which he would tell his pupils, this unfortunately is omitted. Would he tell them, Mr. D. M., that beer is a blessing or a curse? And of so, why?

Number 2 attacks the pedagogical profession in the abstract. The teacher's slogan, we learn, is "Throw away your wagon and get a horn!" Not of plenty, you understand. For four years the college world is fine. After that selling Little Wonder Rifles would be a better life. But to what purpose, Mr. D. M.? To make enough money to send your son to college so that he too may sell more air rifles? Undoubtedly, (Continued on Page Four)

PLAYING SURFACE OF BOWL TO BE COVERED BY CANVAS

Six Great Strips to Cover Entire Field Will Also Be Used for Baseball Diamond This Season.

In the future all Yale football games in New Haven will be started on a dry field for six great spreads of canvas have been ordered which will cover the entire playing surface within the bowl and will protect it against rain, snow and frost during the season.

The playing surface in the bowl during the last season was almost perfect because of the fine weather during the autumn months, but on many occasions in the past Yale and her opponents have had to play their games on a wet or slippery field.

The canvas cover, coming in six pieces, can be removed from the field, rolled up and put aside in twenty minutes. Two of the pieces are 90 by 150 feet and four are 90 by 120 feet. The strips overlap each other, insuring an absolutely dry surface for the players.

The announcement was also made by H. F. Woodcock, General Manager of the Yale Athletic Association, that two of the canvas covers will be used beginning this season, to cover the diamond and base lines on the baseball field giving the baseball players the full benefit of playing on a dry field. The first two strips will be delivered next week and the remaining four on September 1. Heretofore the Athletic Association has been obliged to cover the football field with salt hay.

YALE FRESHMEN WILL MEET FIVE HARVARD SQUASH MEN

Yale and Harvard Freshman Squash Racquets Teams will meet for the first time in the history of the sport this afternoon in the Yale Courts at 2:30. Teams of five men each will represent the universities in the meet. Coach W. E. Hinchcliff of Yale announced that the line-up for the Eli yearlings will be as follows: Ingram, Holbrook, Patterson, McGinn and Wiener. Admission will be free.

PENNSYLVANIA TO OPPOSE UNIVERSITY BOXERS HERE

Yale Team Will End Season With Meet in Gymnasium at 8 Tonight—Freshman Also to Conclude Schedule.

Teams from the University of Pennsylvania will oppose both the University and Freshman boxers in the Gymnasium tonight at 8. This will be the final match of the season for the Yale men. The Freshman bouts will take place first and will be followed immediately by the meeting between the two University teams.

Although the Pennsylvania boxers have had more experience, having taken part in six meets this season, little can be told of the relative strength of the two teams. Both have lost to the Army and defeated Western Maryland. In the remaining game of their schedule, the Yale men scored a decisive victory over New Hampshire College.

The record of the Pennsylvania team is not exceptionally impressive as they lost to Virginia, Syracuse and Penn State, as well as the Army. However, they recently defeated the Navy, losing only one bout.

The University team will use a slightly different line-up for the meet tonight. J. J. Smick, 1928, will box in the 115-pound class as T. Thomas, 1930, is laid up with a cold.

One of the best bouts of the evening should be the meeting of the rival captains (Continued on Page Four)

UNIVERSITY TRACK STARS TO MEET CORNELL TEAM

Will Be Fifth Annual Meeting With Present I.C.A.A.A. Indoor Champions.

MEET TO BE HELD AT ITHACA

Thirty-five Yale Athletes Left Yesterday for Dual Encounter With "Big Red" Team Today—Each Has Won Two of Previous Contests.

Yale will encounter Cornell for their fifth annual indoor track meet. In the I. C. A. A. A. last Saturday the Elis were only 1 1/2 points behind the Red and White team which carried off the major honors. Each university has won two of the four previous matches by slender margins. Both teams are reported to be in good condition, and sports critics predict a close match.

In order to permit a large number of spectators to witness the contest, it will be held in the Cornell armory. The track, unlike the one used in the intercollegiate meet, will be flat without any banking on the turns. It is hard and will necessitate the use of rubber solid shoes instead of the regular spikes. The contestants will run between painted lines.

On February 25, a triangular meet was held between Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard and Yale. Harvard won this meet with Cornell second. This should serve as an indication of the comparative strength of Yale and Harvard in their meet this Spring. Harvard, however, was beaten in the Intercollegiates by four other teams including both Cornell and Yale. This is especially encouraging for Yale in the meet tonight, as a well balanced team is more valuable in a dual meet than a team which is especially good in the weight events. Since the weight will take place this afternoon Cornell will probably enter the meet with a slight lead over the Blue.

Chapel

Reverend Elmore M. McKee, 1919, University Pastor, will speak at today's service.

The preacher at the morning service tomorrow in Battell Chapel will be the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, '97. Dr. Coffin is a member of the Yale Corporation and has been for many years one of the strongest preachers at Yale each year. He is the author of "Some Christian Convictions," "New Testament Portraits of Jesus," Christianity and the Industrial Order" and other volumes. He is President of the Union Theological Seminary, and was formerly minister of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City.

Dr. Coffin will also speak at the vesper service at 5:15 in Battell Chapel, which will be followed by a social hour in Dwight Hall in charge of a committee of ladies of the University Church. Refreshments will be served and members of the student body are cordially invited to come and meet Dr. Coffin at this time.

There will be a service of Holy Communion in Battell Chapel at 9 tomorrow.

FIFTY PRINTS OF YEAR TO BE SHOWN AT YALE

Third Annual Exhibition Will Be Held in President's Room from March 19 to 28.

TWO TYPES TO BE DISPLAYED

"Conservative" Prints Selected by Bertha E. Jaques, Secretary of the Chicago Society of Etchers—Rockwell Kent, Noted Artist, "Moderns" Judge.

Through the courtesy of the American Institute of Graphic Arts the third annual exhibition of the "Fifty Prints of the Year" will be shown at the University. The display will be held in the President's Room on the second floor of Memorial Hall, because the new Gallery of Fine Arts is still incomplete. It will be open daily from 2 to 5 in the afternoon between Monday, March 19, to Wednesday, March 28.

Like the two earlier exhibitions, the present one includes twenty-five "conservative" prints and twenty-five of the "moderns." The selection of the Conservative group has been made by Bertha E. Jaques who is well known to print makers as the Secretary of the Chicago Society of Etchers. The "one man jury" for the modern group was Rockwell Kent, whose paintings and prints in many museums give him outstanding rank among contemporary American artists.

An effort has been made by the judges to choose vigorous work in as many as possible of the various methods of print making and the result is a pleasantly varied selection of etchings, dry-points, and lithographs, a linoleum cut and an aquatint. Among the well-known artists whose prints will be shown are John Taylor Arms, Rockwell Kent, J. J. Lankes, Leon Underwood and J. W. Winkler. The work of Troy Kinney, '96 included in each of the two previous annual exhibitions is represented again, this year by his "Footlight", a dry point. A woodcut "On the Maine Coast" by Thomas W. Nason will be shown. His "House in Digby, Nova Scotia" will be remembered as one of the favorites of last year's show. The complete list follows:

John Taylor Arms, La Mangia, Siena (etching).

William Auerbach-Levy, Elsberth (soft ground etching).

Gustav Baumann, El Velorio (block print).

Sears Gallagher, Cribbage (etching).

Frances Gearhart, Heart of the Canyon (black print).

Armin Hensen, Fisher Harbor (dry print).

Alfred Hutton, Gossips (etching).

Charles B. Keeler, Road to Guejar (aquatint).

Troy Kinney, Footlight (dry point).

Vernon T. Kirkbride, The Gypsy Shawl (etching).

HENRY SLOANE COFFIN, '97, WILL PREACH IN BATTLE

Noted Speaker, Who Is to Lead Morning and Afternoon Services, Will Also Give Series of Lectures.

As a greatly anticipated unit in the University Church's program of bringing to New Haven the country's finest ministers, tomorrow morning's sermon will be delivered by Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, '97. In the afternoon at 5:15, he will again speak, leading the recently instituted and popular Vesper Service.

Dr. Coffin's appearance in Battell will mark the start of a four days' visit at Yale. A series of lectures and informal meetings has been planned with the general purpose of giving the undergraduates the opportunity of a more thorough discussion and acquaintance with their problems and the part religion can play in them. In Sprague Hall on Monday at 6:45, Dr. Coffin will speak on the significance of religious experience, a topic of especial concern after the Princeton Conference, where representatives deplored the lack of religion in the students' lives. Dr. Coffin has had exceptional contact with college men, as he has made extensive travels among the universities, and as a member of the Corporation has made frequent visits to Yale; the open discussion to be held in Byers Hall at 8, after the lecture, affords all who are interested the opportunity to express their views and seek the counsel of Dr. Coffin, who will probably give a short introductory talk.

It is emphasized by the University Church and by Dwight Hall that the lectures and the meeting Monday night are open to all, and Freshmen particularly are invited to consider these occasions a sworth their attendance.

UNIVERSITY AND FRESHMAN SKATERS WILL FORM TEAM

Stars of This Season's Hockey Sextets to Play New Haven Eagles Under Title "Yale Consolidateds."

Arrangements have been completed for a hockey game between the Yale Consolidateds and the New Haven Eagles according to an announcement made last night by the Yale Athletic Association. The game will be played in the Arena on Monday at 8:15. The Yale Consolidateds are made up of players from this year's University and Freshman teams.

The regular New Haven team will face the Yale sextet in what should prove to be one of the most interesting and closely contested games of the season. The combination of University and Freshman players should result in an exceptionally strong team which may prove more than a match for the Eagles.

W. H. Palmer, 1913, F. B. Ryan, Jr., 1928, R. M. Hurd, Jr., 1928, and P. Curtis, 1929, are among the stars of this year's University sextet who will appear in the line-up of the Consolidateds. R. F. Vaughan, 1928, University hockey captain, will be unable to play in Monday's game as he is also captain of the University Baseball Team. Captain F. A. Nelson, Jr., J. Breckinridge, F. Farrell, 3rd, and J. R. McLennan, of (Continued on Page Three)

J. R. SHEFFIELD ADDRESSES YALE CLUB OF NEW YORK

"Traditions of Yale Are Its Most Priceless Heritage," Declares Former Envoy.

FOUR INFORMAL TALKS GIVEN

Bartholomew, Robertson, and Quarrier Treat University Problems at Dinner in New York Last Night—Adee, '95, Commends Purpose of Banquet.

"The traditions of Yale are its most priceless heritage and it is up to you men who are leaders and best representative of its standards to uphold them," declared James R. Sheffield, '87, former president of the Yale Club of New York and former Ambassador to Mexico in the principal address of the annual dinner tendered fifty representatives undergraduates by the Yale Club of New York here tonight. Ambassador Sheffield headed a list of speakers which included George T. Ade, '95, Chairman of the Committee on Undergraduate Affairs of the Yale Club, Dana T. Bartholomew, 1928, retiring chairman of the YALE DAILY NEWS, Arthur C. Robertson, 1928, chairman of the College Student Council, and Sidney S. Quarrier, 1928S, Chairman of the Sheffield Student Council. The speakers were interspersed throughout the course of the dinner, and informal discussion on current topics of Yale interest prevailed.

"The undergraduates may be led to believe that we Alumni wish only to hear about athletic victories and the like," said Mr. Ade, in the opening address, "but the fact is that we are vitally interested in what you are doing with every aspect of Yale life, and it is only through such a liaison that we can know what is transpiring in New Haven."

Ambassador Sheffield, in an admirably couched and concise speech, expressed confidence in the seriousness with which the undergraduate speakers talked of under-

YALE SWIMMING TEAM TO OPPOSE PRINCETON

Second Meet of Season Will Take Place at Princeton This Afternoon.

ELIS UNDEFEATED IN LEAGUE

Both Swimming and Water Polo Teams Have Maintained Spotless Record in League Contests—Yearlings Will Face Tigers in Carnegie Pool.

With a spotless record in league contests behind them, the University Swimming and Water Polo Teams will meet the Tigers in the second encounter of the season at Princeton this afternoon. Although in the previous contest the Yale Teams won by large scores, it is expected that the Orange and Black will present stronger opposition in today's meet. The Freshman swimmers will face the Princeton yearlings in a meet to be held in Carnegie Pool this afternoon at 3:30.

Both the Tiger Swimming and Water Polo Teams have had fairly successful seasons, each having defeated C. C. N. Y., Pennsylvania, and Dartmouth. The Water Polo Team also won from Syracuse. The most outstanding performers on the swimming team are Hedges and Brooks in the dive, Wallace in the breast stroke, and Davidson in the free style. The Freshmen beat both the Pennsylvania and Columbia Freshmen, but lost to Mercersburg.

The line-up is as follows: 50-yard dash—Yale: L. J. Rapoport, 1930S, W. S. Meany, 1928; Princeton: Davidson, Crown.

440-yard swim—Yale: F. A. Spencer, 1929, W. Brewster, 1929; Princeton: Taylor, Loeb.

Dive—Yale: M. A. Glascock, 1930, W. S. Manuel, 1930; Princeton: Hedges, Brooks.

150-yard back stroke—Yale: Captain J. A. House, 1928S, R. A. Greer; Princeton: Brown, Ridgeway.

VITAL ISSUES

The conference which will be held under the leadership of Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, '97, President of the Union Theological Seminary, is a further indication of the valuable work which is being carried on under the new regime of the University Church. The idea of meetings of this sort is entirely in accordance with Yale tradition in religious matters, and is one which has been put into execution for many years. Dr. Coffin is one of the best-known leaders in the religious life of our college, and has in the past had much experience in conferences of this sort at many of the larger universities about the country.

Dr. Coffin will conduct the morning service at Battell Chapel this Sunday, and at the Vesper Service in the afternoon he will speak again. The actual conference will begin on Monday evening in Sprague Hall, with an open meeting following later in Byers Hall which is intended to encourage unrestrained discussion of religious problems from all angles. As a graduate of Yale, Dr. Coffin's interest in the problems of the University, together with his interest in the undergraduates' attitude, is unflagging; and the opportunity for such intimate contact with him that is offered by personal conferences at the Rev. Mr. McKee's office should not escape the attention of many who feel a keen interest in undergraduate conditions of any sort.

In carrying out the plan of the conference upon a smaller, more intensive, and saner scale than has been the custom in the past, a more effective and more useful result will be achieved. The element of discussion is an important matter in helping to clear up any misunderstandings and doubts which may arise in the minds of those who attend the speeches. The point in question which Dr. Coffin will discuss will have more direct, practical effect upon everyone concerned if brought into the more informal atmosphere of the open meetings. The conference is not intended to be at all revivalistic in character, but will be based upon the necessity of direct appeal to the undergraduates. The general trend of discussion will be upon the nature of religious experience, obstacles in the road towards its attainment, and the element of adventure which enters into religious life. It will be an approach to the problems of existence from the philosophical as well as religious point of view, and should prove very effective in throwing light upon many of the vital issues in our undergraduate life.

WALTER DAMROSCH

Again the University will have the good fortune to hear Walter Damrosch lecture upon the Wagnerian opera. A former conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra and an outstanding figure in the world of music, he has for the past three years given his lectures before prodigious numbers of students, "illustrating" them by frequent examples at the piano. The charm of his personality, his sense of humor, and his success in making the subject upon which he is so great an authority fascinating to those whose musical knowledge is of the most limited sort, have won him enthusiastic acclaim.

Retiring last year from his position as conductor of the New York Symphony after thirty years of service in that capacity, Mr. Damrosch has occupied himself in conducting special concerts, lecturing, and writing. His position in the musical world is an honored one, for he is one of America's greatest leaders in the art. In his many serviceable years he has done much toward the betterment and progress of music in this country. The rapidity with which the supply of tickets was exhausted is a definite proof that Yale recognizes the full importance of the opportunity which is offered.

COMMUNICATION

Acute Situation

To the Chairman of the News

Dear Sir:

The lecture by Walter Damrosch was planned for the students and the arbitrary division of a certain part to the public in face of an overwhelming demand by the students creates a more acute situation where none should exist. The common understanding is that if there are any tickets left after the students have exhausted their demand, then the public may attend but not before. Yet in face of an almost certain shortage, a fixed proportion, one fourth, of a meager supply is arbitrarily set aside for the public. Also, why not have the lecture in a larger hall to take care of the many students who have not received any tickets—at one o'clock the whole award to the students was exhausted—one hour before the time limit.

Let us have something done about this.
M. L. M., 1928.

J. R. Sheffield Addresses

Yale Club of New York

graduate problems, and said that "it was only through these criticisms of contemporary Yale that we can hope for a finer and a better University, if such is possible. The fact that Yale's physical equipment is great, and that she is endowed to the extent of twenty million does not make Yale great in itself," he said, "the undergraduates are the real life blood of Yale, and it is them that we praise for good works, and for them that we have sympathy when they go amiss."

Dana T. Bartholomew, retiring News Chairman, deplored the fact that Yale's great increase in numbers was resulting in the rapid disappearance of class unity. He ascribed as reasons for this change the fact that the classes are not centralized in any particular buildings and that there is no longer any chance for the close contact of the old days of the Brick Row. The weekend exodus and the relative unattractiveness of New Haven to New York and nearby points has done away with the past semblance of the old institution of mellowing college friendships within the walls of Yale.

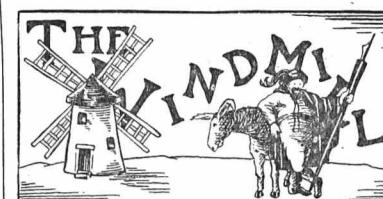

Arthur C. Robertson, 1928, Chairman of the Yale Student Council, discussed the social and physical changes that have taken place in Yale in the last ten years. He stressed the need of fostering an undergraduate's individuality through the curriculum, and elaborated the need for this alteration by more honors courses for greater numbers.

Sidney S. Quarrier, 1928S, Chairman of the Sheffield Student Council, stressed the need for a new quadrangle of buildings similar to Harkness so the attractiveness of Sheff. might vie with that of the college. He stated that Sheffield offered as wide a variety of scientific subjects as any other school of its type in the country, and closed his address with a brief summary of the results of the discontinuance of the Sheff. select course, giving rise to greater specialization.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "Bright College Years" led by L. P. Ross, 1928, leader of the University Glee Club.

Tigers Elect Hockey Captain

Graham Jones of Hartford, Conn., has recently been elected as captain of the Princeton Hockey Team for next season. Jones has been one of the leading members of the Orange and Black forward attack during the past two years and was captain of the Freshman team, playing at center.

CURRENT EVENTS

(Another lecture by Hiram Gasp who is out of jail again.)

Why don't we read the papers more? That is to say, why don't we read more of the papers? No, not more papers! Not that. More in the papers. You know, more of what's printed in the papers. Well, why don't we read more of that? News of the day, stock reports, King George has a cold, the mechanical man has a sore arm, flying at Bethany, Hoover says he'd just as soon be president, I. R. T. rebuffs Walker, Walker rebuffs I. R. T., boa constrictors at zoo have bunch of pups, Tex Rickard to pick one armed blind man to fight Sharkey, Dawes borrows pipe-cleaner. That's the kind of stuff we've got to get hold of if we're going to be good bond-soldiers! We've got to know what's going on and what her telephone number is if we want to get anywhere!

Well, how can we be expected to like the papers after reading Shelley and Keats and guys like that, I mean them? We can't. So the papers have got to be more intellectual if they want us to read them, ain't I right? You said it, Mr. Broun! You said it, Mr. Lippman! For instance take this as an example: "Harvey Is Asked to Tell Shearn About Sewers".... headline, N. Y. Evening Sun.

Now couldn't Mr. Harvey be asked to tell Mr. Shearn about the sewers some other place beside on the second page of the Sun? I don't call that de rigueur, I mean au fait... it isn't nice that's all! Why couldn't Mr. Shearn invite Mr. Harvey around to dinner and ask him in a nice way: "Say, Harv, ole boy, tell me about them subterranean hangouts of the dishwater. What's wrong anyway?" And then Mr. Harvey could say: "Well, I tell you Joe (or Ed or Bill... whatever Mr. Shearn's monnikin is), them dam' things is o.k.; it's the guys that dump in the dishwater that are hollering... etc., etc."

In this way Mr. Shearn and Mr. Harvey could go ahead and fix things up, and then play a round or two of pool and go home in a friendly way. That would leave more room for book-review artists to lay it on thick like we like, huh? Sure, you get the idea.

(Note: At this point Mr. Gasp felt sick and quit. He will conclude this lecture at some future date.)

Er Uh, the Hindoo poet, thinks it would be a swell idea to have all the news versified. He suggests the great sewer episode be handled as follows:

"Oh Mister Harvey!
Oh Mister Harvey!"
"Why what's on your mind this morning Mister Shearn?"
"All the sewers are on the blink,
And there's really quite a stink;
I have told you all I know, now it's your turn!"
"Oh Mister Shearn!
Oh Mister Shearn!!
Ain't I often said you got to live and learn?
If the sewers are on the blink,
We should fix 'em, don't you think?"
"Absolutely, Mister Harvey!"
"Positively, Mister Shearn!"

This, of course, would be crude, but what can you expect from a person like Er Uh?

Lines to a Bus

A hymn of hate
To execrate
You and your freight
I dedicate!
When on the street,
Upon my feet,
I almost meet
You, be discreet!
I dodge quite well,
But if I fell,
What then, pray tell?
Yes, what the hell?
On you I'll cast
Aspersions nast-
-y till you're past.
Flags at half-mast
You leave behind;
If I could find
The evil mind
That you designed:
He'd have to flee
Right fast from me,
Or, F. O. B.,
He'd R. I. P.!

Where Bread Is More Than</

Fifteen Years Ago Today

In a special article for the NEWS, Malcolm K. Gordon, an authority on the "club system of athletics" pointed out the evils in the modern athletic system of our college.

"Certainly," said Mr. Gordon, "our college athletics are carried too far when only a small fraction of the college in general has the chance to play naturally in games that require grounds and buildings. If we allow that athletics are to be encouraged for the physical benefit of the student body, then these great contests between colleges accomplish but little, because the few men who represent the college are necessarily the most physically perfect and need this development least of all. Again, when a college reduces athletics to a business proposition and then makes enormous sums of money thereby, certainly, to any true sportsman and amateur, athletics have gone to excess in that particular. Athletics and sport in our colleges, I am sorry to say, are vastly different terms: athletics are work, sport is play, and sport ceases to be play when it becomes a business."

It was announced by the Dramatic association that Alfred Noyes, the celebrated English poet, would speak on "Poetry" and read from his own works at Woolsey Hall.

Yale won the Intercollegiate Swimming meet in the Princeton Pool. Princeton was tied for second place with the University of Pennsylvania. Cross of Princeton lowered the Intercollegiate record for the 220-yard swim to 2 minutes and 36 4-5 seconds.

The University Handball Team lost both singles and doubles matches to the Crescent Athletic Club.

The Jayhawker Club announced the date for its annual smoker. All men who had ever lived in Kansas or had ever attended the University of Kansas were urged to attend.

At the Hyperion Theatre William A. Brady was presenting a dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's famous novel, Little Women.

An advertisement, that now seems rather startling to find in the NEWS, read: "If you desire to make a reputation for yourself as an expert cocktail mixer, buy the "Club" brand, follow direction and your friends all will wonder where you gained the art."

Under the title of "Unequal Equality", the NEWS attached the marking system in and editorial which read as follows:

"A man may be the genius of his century or the dumbest clout that ever mapped over a book, and still receive the same privileges and recognition in the College curriculum. A man may aspire to drive a race horse and still receive the same instructions and the same freedom in choosing courses as an aspirant for changing the thought of the world. And, after four years of mental slipping and sliding and shimming, the untutored receive the same degree as the tutored."

"Because classes must be conducted so that they are within the comprehension of the simple, these promising minds, for lack of stimulus, often go to seed. And this "equality" allows the thick or dull and the laggards to slide through on lazy courses and primrose ease. With all these privileges, the dunces stay dunces, and twenty spoil the work of any class for the keenest of minds."

"Many a man will doubtless rant and roar at this suggestion for separating the intellectual sheep from the goats and shortening the tether of the goats. But the separation, with consequent privilege and pain, would make Yale College more a place of learning, less a cavern of panting weariness, criticism, and squandered time. Yale might have more thinking men."

University and Freshman Skaters Will Form Team

this season's excellent Freshman team will be among the 1931 players on the ice, who are expected to show up well in this fast competition.

The Eagles are one of the most popular hockey teams that have ever represented New Haven, and they have done much to increase interest in hockey in this section. They number in their line-up many of the best known stars of professional hockey circles.

This will be the last chance to see many of the members of this year's University team in action as several of the regulars will be graduated this June. It is also a good opportunity to ascertain just how good the Freshman team will be in fast company.

Tickets for this game will be handled by the Arena management and the scale of prices will be that which is in effect for all of the Eagle's games.

It has just been proved that the "Rebecca" in Scott's "Ivanhoe" was an American girl. This girl was Rebecca Gratz (1781-1869) of Philadelphia.

ELI FIVE TO END SEASON IN GAME WITH COLUMBIA

Blue Hopes to Avenge Its Early Season Defeat at the Hands of Morningside Heights Team in Tonight's Game.

In its last game of the season the Yale Basketball Team will meet Columbia in New York tonight. The Elis will try to avenge their defeat at the hands of the Morningside team earlier in the season at which time the Columbia five, though now at the bottom of the league, managed to down the Blue. This game, won by the close score of 24-23, was Columbia's only League victory of the season, but since then the Yale team has improved somewhat, defeating Harvard and Dartmouth and staging a late rally that almost caught Pennsylvania in the league leaders. The outcome of tonight's game cannot alter the League standings materially, since a victory will not enable Columbia to catch Yale; and they are the last two teams in the League. The League championship has not yet been definitely decided, as a victory for Princeton tonight in their game with Pennsylvania would tie them with the Red and Blue. The standings of the teams to date are as follows:

Team	W.	L.	PCT.
Pennsylvania	7	2	.778
Princeton	6	3	.667
Dartmouth	5	4	.556
Cornell	5	4	.556
Yale	3	6	.333
Columbia	1	8	.111

For tonight's game the teams will probably line-up as follows:

YALE	COLUMBIA
Ward (Capt.), 1.f.	1.f., Magurk
Nassau, r.f.	r.f., Ancelewitz or Tys
Cook or Fodder, c.	c., Rieger
McNulty, l.g.	l.g., Madden

WRESTLING TEAMS INVADE CAMBRIDGE AS FAVORITES

Three Intercollegiate Champions Feature
Harvard-Yale Meet—Yearlings Close
Season Against Crimson 1931.

In their last dual meets of the season, the University and Freshman Wrestling Teams will come up against Harvard at Cambridge today. The encounter will be the last for the Yearlings, while the University grapplers still have ahead of them the Intercollegiates at Princeton.

Summing up the respective strength of the opposing teams, Harvard has won four of its five meets, and in Lifrak and Corson has the Intercollegiate champions for the 135-pound and the 145-pound classes respectively. Yale has a record of four victories and two setbacks, Capt. B. C. Miller, 1928, two years Intercollegiate 158-pound champion, is almost sure to avenge his upset of last week on his Crimson opponent. The Eli 1931 Team is a slight favorite, due to having only one defeat in six starts.

University Line-up:

115-pound class—Randolph, 1930, or Thayer, 1928S, vs. Chibas, Harvard.

125-pound class—Whitridge, 1930, vs. Burns, Harvard.

135-pound class—Sargent, 1930S, vs. Lifrak, Harvard.

145-pound class—Dodd, 1929S, vs. Corson, Harvard.

158-pound class—Captain Miller, 1928, vs. Solano, Harvard.

175-pound class—Holt, 1928, vs. Warner, Harvard.

Unlimited class—Blunt, 1928S, vs. Captain Howe, Harvard.

1931 line-up:

115-pound class—Mason, Yale, vs. Captain Yamaguchi, Harvard.

125-pound class—Wood, Yale, vs. Pollard, Harvard.

135-pound class—Whiting, Yale, vs. Tryon, Harvard.

145-pound class—Captain Gleason, Yale, vs. Frazier.

158-pound class—Jenkins, Yale, vs. Robinson, Harvard.

175-pound class—Perry, Yale, vs. Orgain, Harvard.

Unlimited class—Terry or Taylor, Yale, vs. Vonckx, Harvard.

there are a lot of contacts to be made in the air rifle business if one is a good shot. And imagine what with the Daisy on the market and the marines in Nicaragua the competition is pretty hot, but is that your "world of reality?" Again, "If one has the slightest mental equipment, he can make a living at it." (Teaching not air rifles understood). Well, sir, you at least seem to have answered the old perplexing question, "What's all the shooting for?"

Egyptian Students Riot

Student disturbances arising from the Anglo-Egyptian question in Cairo resulted in an attack against the Americans there because they refused to join in the strike with 1500 other students. Dr. Russel, the principal, was hurt in the melee, as well as twenty-eight students and eight policemen.

The next point of interest is a delightful satirical cartoon by Max. It pictures Corporation, Faculty and President driving the educational system, decrepid, but evidently still moving. The president is non-committal, the Faculty intense, the Corporation suspicious. The title is "We don't know where we're going but we're on our way." To buy air rifles from the Alumni perhaps.

On page 353, D. T. Ward has done well. The cartoon is delicious, the caption is good, and so is the one on 357. Throughout the drool is fair, the verse mediocre. Ah, for the days of Bronson, of Jaffray, when no one cared whether professors told the truth and an imaginary pretty girl would set a ballade bubbling in the healer's head. Ehen fugaces.

in the 125-pound class. Captain Levy of the Penn team, who was runner-up in this division in the Intercollegiates last year, will have his hands full when he encounters Captain W. L. Graham, Jr., 1928S of the University team. Captain Graham won the only bout for Yale against the Army, last week.

Neither Freshman team has had a great deal of experience, the Yale yearlings having defeated M. I. T. in their only meet of the season while the Penn team has boxed in two, winning from Peddie and losing to Staunton Military Academy.

The probable line-up for the University teams is as follows:

115-pound class—J. J. Smick, 1928, (Y); Hamilton, (Penn.)

125-pound class—W. L. Graham, Jr., 1928S, Capt., (Y); Levy, Capt., (Penn.)

135-pound class—S. R. Prince, Jr., 1929, (Y); Rosenblith, (Penn.)

145-pound class—F. A. Gatyas, 1930, (Y); Winarsky, (Penn.)

158-pound class—J. L. High, 1928, (Y); Horne, (Penn.)

175-pound class—D. L. Ferris, 1920, (Y); Broselow, (Penn.)

The Freshman line-up will be as follows:

115-pound class—H. L. Hartman, (Y); Gordon, (Penn.)

125-pound class—D. J. Burns, (Y); MacDonald, (Penn.)

135-pound class—L. H. Cornelli, (Y); Balin, (Penn.)

145-pound class—J. B. Boyle, (Y); Parlatore, (Penn.)

158-pound class—L. H. Nichols, (Y); Kops, (Penn.)

175-pound class—K. Dunn, (Y); Boyce, (Penn.)

ELI SWORDSMEN LEAVE FOR WEST POINT MEET

University Fencers Will Face Undefeated Cadets in Last Outside Meet of Season.

CLOSE CONTEST PROMISED

University Foilsmen Have Been Victorious in Collegiate Competition—Freshman Fencing Team Matched With Plebes in Preliminary Meet.

In their last regular meet away from home the University fencers will oppose the Army Team at West Point today. The cadet swordsmen have been defeated by the Yale fencers for the last seven consecutive years but this record does not mean that the Army has poor teams, for every victory has been well contested. Yale won last year only by a one point margin, 9-8. The Freshmen team will likewise make the trip to meet the Army Plebes in all three weapons.

The Army fencers have yet to be defeated this year, having conquered all five teams met thus far on their schedule. Opening the season against the University of Pennsylvania, the cadets scored an easy victory, 15-2. After this the Washington Square Fencer's Club was defeated by a one point margin, 14-13, and the following week Harvard was overcome, 11-6. The next meet was with the Sanford Saltus Club of New York, the West Point swordsmen again registering a victory, 16-11, and last Saturday Columbia was beaten, 10-7.

With this string of victories behind them, the Army fencers are certain to furnish strong opposition in today's meet. Breckenridge, Quill, Hinrichs, and Sands all fenced for the Army in the Intercollegiates last year, Sands winning the individual epee championship. In addition to this, the West Point team won the three-weapon team championship and the epee team championship, as well as tying for second place with Yale in the foil championship. Thus far this season Breckenridge has starred with the foils and Hinrichs has been the mainstay of the epee team, although no man on the team has had a perfect record, each having been defeated at least twice.

As a result of their 10-7 victory over the Navy last Saturday, the Eli fencers, likewise, have not yet been defeated by a college team this year. Harvard was conquered, 11-6 as well as the New Haven Fencer's Club and the Sanford Saltus Club of New York. The only defeat of the season came at the hands of the New York Fencer's Club, recognized as one of the best teams of swordsmen in the country.

Captain D. Every, 1928, intercollegiate foils champion last year, has again proved to be the stay of the Eli team. Every has lost only one of his fourteen matches so far this year and is out to equal his record of last year when he won forty-five out of his forty-six bouts, his one setback coming in the Intercollegiate Meet, which he eventually won with a record that overshadowed all other performances in intercollegiate competition.

The Army Plebe Team, which will meet the Freshmen, lost its one meet this year to the Milford School, 10-7. The Freshmen, on the other hand, have scored victories over Choate, 10-7, Brunswick, 14-3, and Roxbury, 13-4, their only defeat being in the Harvard meet in which only the foils team was engaged.

The line-up for the University meet is as follows:

Foils—Yale: Every, Fleming, Overstreet, Righeimer. Army: Breckinridge, Brownlee, Quill.

Epee—Yale: Hill, Wright. Army: Hinrichs, Sands.

Sabre—Yale: Blossom, Nusbaum. Army: Giddings, Goodrich.

The line-up for the Freshman meet is as follows:

Foils—Yale: Hubby, Nicklis, Terrell. Army: Chandler, Farris, Wise.

Epee—Yale: Wickes, Williams, Withers. Army: Howze, Magee.

Sabre—Yale: Hope, Tanner. Army: Nixdorff, Smart.

GENERAL C. H. SHERRILL, '89, CHAMPIONS COLLEGE SPORT

Former Captain of Track and Present Member of Olympic Committee, Discredits Statistics.

Track has been and still is one of the most interesting and important sports at Yale, according to the following statement made yesterday by General Charles H. Sherrill, '89, Captain of Track in that year and now a member of the Olympic Committee. General Sherrill scoffs at the damning statistics that track athletes are the most unintelligent undergraduates. He was a great athlete himself and is credited with having invented the crouch start for sprinters.

"I am taking the same amused interest in the recently published statistics about college athletes producing nothing but decayed gentlemen at an early age after graduation. I have not the mathematical brain which really grasps statistics, but here is some dope which always seemed to me rather convincing.

"During the four years that the Class of '89 spent at Yale College, there were, each of those four years, more '89 men with the right to wear a 'Y' than all the other three classes put together. All of those '89 University men were in the first third of the class, and most of us had never had anything to do with athletics before we went to Yale. None of our men had ever rowed, although we had five men on the University boat. George W. Woodruff, '89, had never seen football until soon after the opening of college. He went out to try for the second team, and the first day he played in old long black trousers and a straw hat. I had never seen a pair of spiked shoes nor did I know there was such a thing until I had been in college over a week, but won seven Intercollegiate Championships. In my senior year I was Captain of the Track Team and we won the Intercollegiate Championship. In fact, because it was '89's senior year we won all four major championships.

"Twenty-five years after graduation I gave a dinner for my Championship Team and 100 per cent were present, as were also the captains of the three other Championship Teams of '89. Our Track Team was photographed sitting in exactly the same position as they had been in the championship photograph twenty-five years before. I am planning to give a Fortieth Reunion dinner of my Intercollegiate Champion Team next year, and to invite the other three winning captains of '89. I hope they will all be present, for at the present writing they are all strong and kicking. Especially are they kicking at most of the piffle statistics about college athletics turning men into boobs or hospitals."

CLASS BASKETBALL LEAGUE WON BY COLLEGE JUNIORS

In a close and exciting game yesterday, 1929 defeated 1929S in the final class basketball game by the score of 14 to 9. The winner was undecided until the last few minutes of play, when baskets by J. vanD. Wood and A. F. Blaser, Jr., gave the victory to 1929.

This game concluded the most successful season the class league has ever had. Teams were on hand for every scheduled game and most of the contests were exceedingly well played. Much better organization was evident in the league this year than ever before. The credit for this improvement is due in a large measure to the work of Coach Taylor and Manager H. G. Bitz, 1929. The system which met with such success this season will be followed again next year.

The numbers of the Championship 1929 team will receive charms as a result of their victory.

Fire at St. Anthony

A fire, the second within a year in the same top floor room, broke out at St. Anthony at 2 this morning. The cause is believed to have been a short circuit. It was only after considerable damage to the room that the chemical brigade of the New Haven Fire department succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

Cougars Will Claw Roxbury

The first, last and only appearance of the far-famed Sophomore Cougars against a foreign team will be presented for the delectation of all those who love the puck chasing sport at the Arena tomorrow afternoon at 1:33. Captain Optional W. Chappell, back in New Haven for his triennial reunion, will lead the boys in the fracas, supplemented by "Sudden Death" Stewart, "Bad Man" Bent, "Sure Stop" Cruickshank, and "Rain in the Face" Rudd. Jumbo Crackers and Worcestershire sauce will be served between whistles in the Roxbury fort, which by the way is the opposing team. The pasteboards for the contest are selling at slightly under par, but the demand has been heavy.

Drink Her Down

The Yale Men's "Rendezvous," Rourke's Brasserie, was raided yesterday by police and the proprietor, Jay B. Rourke, fined $200 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of violating the liquor law. The police seized beer which was alleged to contain over four per cent alcohol.

Well established book-publisher (of low priced books in the progressive, liberal, and adult-education field) offers half interest in the business for additional capital to be used in publishing new titles and extending distribution. Full details, records and accounts will be frankly presented. This offers the beginning of a satisfying career to a young man who has in hand, or can draw upon fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars who likes books, and who would be interested in getting good books written, designed well and distributed widely. Answer to M. L. Ernst, 285 Madison Ave., New York City.
