CRIMINAL ACTION AGAINST SUGAR SPECULATORS LIKELY

Government Begins Injunction Proceedings to Prevent Gambling on Stocks.

NEW TARIFF ACT NOT BLAMED.

Commission Reports to President Harding That Lowering or Removal of Duties Would Decrease American Production.

Washington, April 19.—Criminal prosecutions may follow an injunction suit filed in New York to-day by the federal government to protect the public against exorbitant sugar prices.

The first phase of the government's action against the alleged sugar conspiracy was completed with institution of the civil injunction proceedings to prevent speculative trading on the New York Sugar Exchange. The criminal phase was held in abeyance but Acting Attorney General Seymour announced that it was under serious consideration.

The final decision regarding criminal action was said officially to be before Attorney General Daugherty, who is now at Asheville, N. C.

Another development to-day in the sugar situation was a report to President Harding by the tariff commission which found that the duties of the new Fordney-McCumber tariff act were not a factor in the recent increase in sugar prices. The commission declared the increase was due to other causes, and that if the tariff was reduced or removed, the tendency would be to decrease production of American beet sugar and increase imports of the foreign product.

RUTH ST. DENIS WILL APPEAR AT HYPERION WITH DANCERS.

Program Given is to Consist of Musical Visualizations, an Old Toltec Legend, and Spanish and Oriental Dances.

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with the Denishawn Dancers, will appear in a program of aesthetic dances at the Hyperion to-night at 8:15. The numbers given will include Music Visualizations; Spanish Dances; "Hochiti," a story based on an ancient Toltec legend; and Oriental Dances, with one selection each from China, Crete, India, Siam, Japan, Java, and Egypt.

In Oriental roles Miss St. Denis is brilliant above all, and it is interesting to note that she first obtained her idea of Oriental dancing by studying an Egyptian cigarette advertisement in a drug store window.

In an interview granted to the News, Mr. Shawn discussed last Saturday the trend of the modern dance and criticized college students. "The rise of dancing to its true place," he said, "is one of the most encouraging features of present day art, for, after all, dancing is the mother of the arts. All human beings have an innate desire to express themselves rhythmically.

"Do not mistake the social dancing of this day for the reality. Jazz is a mere (Continued on third page)

CLASS BASEBALL MEETING IN A1 OSBORN TO-NIGHT.

A meeting for all men interested in a class baseball league will be held in A1 Osborn to-night at 6:45. At this time those intending to try for their class teams should be present, as class captains are to be elected and the plans for the spring class league discussed. Mr. Blossom will preside and introduce as speakers Coaches Tommers, Wood, and Fogarty.

"Joe" Fogarty, coach of the University Basketball Team, has been engaged to take charge of the league. He will officiate at the games throughout the class league season and it is hoped that his connection with this branch of sport will be an incentive in bringing out a large number of candidates.

Present plans call for a week of organization and practice under "Joe" Fogarty. The balance of the season, until June 1, will be devoted to playing out the class league schedule for the purpose of determining the class league championship. Numerals will be given to the team (Continued on fifth page.)

"BILL" WISER DIES OF CANCER AT HIS HOME IN FAIR HAVEN.

Friend of Yale Men For Thirty Years Succumbs After Illness of Three Months.

Many a Yale man of the last thirty years lost one of his best friends when "Bill" Wiser died of cancer at his home in Fair Haven last night. He had been ill for about three months, but his death came as an unexpected shock to his many friends and to his associates in the Campus Police Force.

Willis G. Wiser was born in Grand Detour, Illinois, about sixty-five years ago. When he was seventeen years old he enlisted in the Navy and served for several years on the U. S. S. Minnesota.

Early in the eighties he became a policeman in the New Haven Police Department and was stationed in Westville.

In 1894 he and "Jim" Donnelly volunteered to become the first campus policemen. At that time there was a good deal of feeling between the students and the city police. That "Bill" Wiser was able to gain the confidence and friendship of the students, is an indication of his wonderful tact, his cheerfulness, and his unfailing sense of humor. He was always ready to help a boy get into his room when he had been locked out or to do any of those other little things that (Continued on second page.)

THREE YALE PROFESSORS WILL RETIRE NEXT JUNE.

According to an announcement issued yesterday, Charles Schuchert, professor of paleontology and historical geology at the University since 1904, E. Hershey Sneath, professor of the philosophy of religion in the Divinity School, and Horace L. Wells, professor of analytical chemistry and metallurgy since 1893, will retire from active teaching in June.

As curator of the geological collections of the Peabody Museum, Professor Schuchert has secured large additions, frequently doing field work himself. Professor Schuchert is the author of the Paleography of North America, and co-author with L. V. Pirsson of a text book on "Historical Geology," a second edition of which is now in press.

E. Hershey Sneath completes thirty-four years of service at Yale. He organized and edited The Modern Philosophers Series of six volumes; Religion and the War; and in addition to editing many other volumes, is the author of several books on philosophical subjects.

VERMONT DEFEATS YALE 4-3 IN PITCHERS' DUEL

Timely Hitting of Visitors is Largely Responsible For Close Victory.

FOUR ERRORS PROVE COSTLY.

Hit Batsman, Stolen Base, Single, and Squeeze Play Score Decisive Run in Eighth Inning — University Rally Falls Short.

A well-executed squeeze play in the eighth inning gave Vermont a 4 to 3 victory over the University at Yale Field yesterday. With the score tied at 3-3, Ready was hit by a pitched ball, stole second, and went to third on Conlin's single. Chevalier then sacrificed, and Ready crossed the plate with the winning run. The game early developed into a pitcher's duel, and, but for four costly errors and the more timely hitting of the visitors, might have ended in a deadlock.

Yale gained a one-run lead in the first inning, but Vermont forged ahead with scores in the second and third. Hickey started the seventh with a single, and took second on an infield out. Durgin hit Mallory and an error advanced both runners. O'Hearn's line-drive to center tied the count but Durgin tightened up, and checked the rally.

Ross, although wild at times, pitched a good game, striking out five batters and allowing but three hits in six innings. Hartnett relieved him in the seventh with men on first and third and worked out of a bad hole. Mallory and O'Hearn pulled a clever play that retired McGinnis at home, and Oed's beau- (Continued on third page)

ANONYMITY?

A notice in yesterday's News reads: "The Freshman Discipline Committee announces that a member of the Freshman Class has been suspended for violation of the Honor System." No doubt the Honor Committee is right in not announcing the offender's name in a case of suspension, where the man will be given an opportunity to return and make good. The general policy of anonymity, however, should not always be followed, since effective force upon undergraduates is lost. To announce a violator's name would have the double effect of making students less likely to run the risk of dishonesty, and of impressing fellow undergraduates by a specific rather than a hazy example. It would not be advisable to put the name into print, where nation-wide publication would make the offense an eternal stigma, but an announcement in Chapel, where it would reach the ears of those concerned, and those only, would seem a sensible and salutary mode of procedure.

THE HELPING HAND.

Although reports break into print at intervals, disclosing cruelty to convicts, and proving that barbarism is not yet dead, America's attitude toward the offender against society leans more and more toward the sympathetic "helping hand." Storms of indignation have been aroused against such treatment as caused the death of a young lad in Florida as a result of convict peonage and flogging. How different, and infinitely more approvable to read upon the sporting page accounts of a baseball game between Sing Sing and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Florida, in the limelight because of her "inhospitality" to prisoners, is at present "entertaining" a citizen of Connecticut, a man of intelligence, one would gather from his letter printed herewith. His appeal, addressed in loyal Yankee fashion to the President of Yale University, should touch a responsive chord in many hearts. He wishes books on Law, History and Grammar, a request which should be easily fulfilled.

It is further indicative of poor prison conditions that libraries should not be available to men anxious thus to improve their minds. When good citizens are given such an opportunity to alleviate a bad situation, nothing further need be said. Perhaps, however, something bigger is indicated; general libraries for all prisons is a goal worth aiming for, as the "helping hand" becomes a universal attitude.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A Prisoner's Plea.

[Ed. Note.—The following communication was addressed to President Angell by a citizen of Connecticut. The News is withholding the writer's name from publication but any answers to the man's appeal will be forwarded to him if left at the News Office.]

President Yale University,

Dear Sir:-

This letter is in the form of a plea to you for a little aid. I am a Connecticut young man who came South a short while ago and who fell into a little trouble. I am serving a sentence in the Florida State Penitentiary now and while I am here paying my debt to society I want to equip myself for the world outside when I get out.

I have not very much longer to serve and I want to start studying hard right away. I have a wife and baby in Stamford, Conn., and I owe it to them to start life anew. I am not a hardened criminal but just fell a victim to evil companions. I have always been interested in law, especially criminal law, and would appreciate some law books and a dictionary and if possible a history, (American), and an advanced English Grammar. If you can possibly spare any other books I certainly would appreciate it. I hope these few lines will interest you enough to help out a young man who has fallen but who has been striving to rise again. Please do what you can for me.

Anaesthetic Criticism.

To the Chairman of the NEWS,
Dear Sir:-

Apropos of the recent Playcraftsmen production it seems to me that the failure of Mr. Berdan to perceive the "points" of two of the plays may not be the fault of the authors. Words, the beautifully written fantasy by Mr. Rowell, is directed against all people who seek the point of things. Its "point," obvious enough to most of the audience, is that there is no point. Of course it is not theatrically dramatic—I doubt if its authors ever expected it to be. It is, however, a piece that needs to be perfectly played, or the illusion which it is intended to create will break down. Unfortunately this happened last night because of poor acting.

The other play, The Night Before Larry Was Stretched, is static as far as action is concerned, but the author depends for his effects on the novelty of the setting, the dynamic language of his characters, and the high Promethean defiance of Larry, vagabond and viveur. In a rather uncomplimentary remark about the play Mr. Berdan mentions Synge. The only resemblance to Synge is in the dialect, which, after all, is common property.

The remarks on the third play, The Biddie Sweeps Out, are certainly not very illuminating. He seems to infer that the play fails to be the great one-act play, which it approaches, because of its bitterness and candor. I did not know that it was necessary for a play to be pleasant to be considered great.

It seems unfortunate that the fine and earnest performance of the players should be subject to such anaesthetic criticism. Mr. Berdan betrays a pathetic unfamiliarity with the ways of the theater. It would perhaps be better for him to stick to the short story, in which men like O. Henry pound out their "points" with the most unfailing regularity.

Leave of absence has been granted to Harry N. Whitford, Ph.D., assistant professor of tropical forestry at the University to assist the United States Department of Commerce in the investigations in the production of rubber recently authorized by Congress.

Because of his long experience in tropical forest work in the Orient, as well as in tropical America, Professor Whitford has been called upon to direct the studies in the sources of rubber.

He will be absent during the balance of the present year and a portion of next year.

Aside from his duties as a policeman, he was interested in writing. Two of his books have been published. One, Yale Memories, is the story of his experiences in the college since he became connected with it and the other, Nonsense Verses, is a collection of rhymes and short poems which he had written in his idle moments. His unselfish devotion to the interests of others is well illustrated by the foreword in the latter volume: "These little bughouse rhymes are written just to please two friends."

PEABODY MUSEUM CONTRACT GIVEN TO NEW HAVEN FIRM.

Site of New Building to be Hillhouse
Property at Corner of Whitney
Avenue and Sachem Street.

Yale University awarded to the Sperry and Treat Company of New Haven yesterday the contract for the construction of the new Peabody Museum to be located on the Hillhouse property at the corner of Whitney Avenue and Sachem Street.

The building will be erected at an estimated cost of $700,000. According to Samuel T. Willis, president of the Sperry and Treat Company, work on the new structure will be started within two or three weeks and it is hoped to have it completed in time for the opening of the college year in 1924.

The general style of the building will be old English, the exterior to be constructed of North Haven brick, trimmed with cast stone made to match Long Meadow brown stone. One especially attractive feature of the new building will be the tower which will rise 110 feet above the street level and of which the foundation either will be of concrete or will be carried down to rock. This tower will face Whitney Avenue. Beside the basement, the structure will be three stories in height.

The contracts for the building have all been let to local firms. Day and Klauder of Philadelphia were the architects.

When asked his views on college men, Mr. Shaw criticized them for a lack of politeness and an ignorance of really interesting matters. He declared, "The average undergraduates are neither excellent in manners nor entertaining in conversation. They talk a polyglot jargon all their own which no one else can understand. CORTISSOZ TO LECTURE ON THE WORK OF DEGAS.

In the second Trowbridge lecture which is to be given in the South Gallery of the Art School this afternoon at 5, Royal Cortissos, of New York City, will speak on Degas, French realist and pupil. It has been said that Degas' Mephistophelean attitude towards humanity, which is strikingly noticeable in his work, is a reflection of his person: "A satiric misanthrope analyzing the degraded types which make up the gay life of Paris." As an analyst and ironist of the impressionist group, he has with them a sympathy of temperament rather than a sympathy of technique.

His work has been divided into four main groups: racing series, studies of theatrical life, drawings of the nude, and a few landscapes. Of these, his scènes de théâtre will remain the most famous, being vivid renderings of a life always fascinating to the outside world.

The lecture on April 27, will be given by Frank Weitenkampf, curator of prints in the New York Public Library.

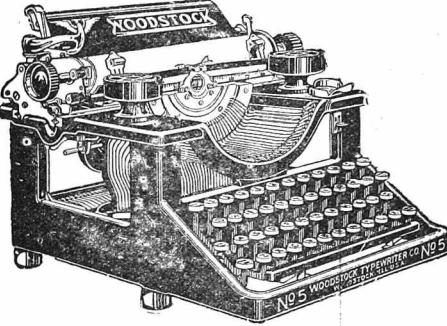

"Don't razz the umpire," is the slogan adopted by the Cornell nine for its spring season.

Newly-Elected President of Bankers Trust Co. Guest of Forty-Three Yale Men at Banquet.

A. A. Tilney, '90, recently elected President of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given at the Yale Club to-night. The forty-two Yale men in the Bankers Trust Co. have joined in arranging this affair in honor of their President, who is the first college graduate to be at the head of this tremendous concern.

Mr. Tilney since boyhood has had the ambition to be a banker. His first position after graduating from Yale in the Class of 1890, was with the Pennsylvania Railroad. It took him only a year to discover that his mind leaned toward finance. From that time, he was engaged in various enterprises until, in 1916, he was made Assistant to the President of the Bankers Trust Co. He was soon made Vice-President and came to be second in command.

Upon the 20th Anniversary of the Company, which was celebrated several weeks ago, Mr. Tilney was elected President, and assumed his new position.

To congratulate Mr. Tilney upon his promotion, the Yale men in the Bankers Trust Co. and on the Board of Directors, and others closely affiliated with the Company will gather at the Yale Club this evening.

Among those who will attend are: Thomas Cochran, '94; George B. Case, '94; Charles L. Tiffany, 1900, and Paul Moore, 1908.

FORESTRY SCHOOL ENDOWED BY LARGE ANONYMOUS GIFT

Income From $100,000 Will Be Used For Development Of Research Work In Forestry.

An anonymous gift to the University School of Forestry of $100,000, to be known as the Forest Production Research Fund, has been announced. The plan of the Forestry School Administration is to preserve the original fund intact, and use the income for the development of research work in forestry.

F. W. Toumey, professor of Silviculture in the Forest School, explained the plan of disposal of the gift as follows: "This donation of $100,000 is for a specific purpose, namely, research in forest production or 'Silviculture.'

"The income from the endowment will be used partly in research fellowships. Men who are equipped to take these must first have thorough training in forestry and must be prepared to do research work under direction of the Silviculture Department of the School of Forestry."

It is expected that two or three of these fellowships may be available next year. Research work, which will be made possible by this endowment, will be under the direction of Professor Toumey and Professor R. C. Hawley. In particular, it will make possible a large expansion in investigative work started last year at the school forest near Keene, N. H., where Professor Toumey will be in residence during the summer months with three men to assist him in investigative work.

Three Yale Professors Will Retire Next June.

Edward P. Eagan, 1921, Captain of the University Boxing Team for two years, and holder of the Olympic light-heavyweight championship, defeated F. J. Hulks in the third round of a boxing bout held at Alexander Palace, London, last Wednesday night, thus winning the amateur boxing association heavyweight championship. Eagan trained for the bout in Dublin, acting as a sparring partner for "Mike" McTigue. This is the thirty-ninth time the championship has been contested, but Eagan is the first American to win it. He competed also in the light-heavyweight class, but was beaten on points by H. J. Mitchell, holder of the title.

Eagan is now attending Oxford University.
